

Safety Policy

Logging Business Name: _____

Logging Business Owners: _____

Specific Job or Equipment Operation

It is the policy of this business that all employees wear appropriate personnel protective equipment (PPE) as required for the job they are undertaking. Employees are required to understand OSHA logging standards that pertain to the portion of the operation they are engaged in or are around. A copy of OSHA standards and other OSHA related documents (ex. MSDS forms) will be available to employees.

All employees will be provided specific safety instructions and/or emergency plans for each logging site. Employees will be provided on-the-job training for the specific tasks they are assigned. Where practical the business will provide opportunities for continuing education for specific tasks. New employees are encouraged to obtain CPR and Adult First Aid training as soon as possible and the business will allow paid time to attend certified training if during work hours. The business will also allow paid time for employees to obtain continued safety training if the training occurs during normally scheduled work hours and is approved by logging business owner. It is also a policy of this firm to keep on-site and operational all required fire extinguishers and a first aid kit on-site and employees are required to know the location of these and how to use them. Employees are required to report broken equipment especially broken ROPS, guards or other safety equipment found on equipment and any significant leaks to their supervisor.
